President's Message

Once again on behalf of the Association of Applied Paleontological Sciences (AAPS), it is my honor and privilege to serve as your president, and welcome our membership back from around the world for the Tucson Gem, Mineral and Fossil Show.

We collectively drive the industry through ethical business practices, constant innovation and discovery in the field. Your contribution as members should be recognized and celebrated.

For many 2024 was a year of growth and reflection, but many of the challenges are behind us now. It was also a year of historical milestones for the AAPS. We honored Peter Larson and BHI for 50 years in business and all watched in amazement at the record-breaking sale price of Apex, an exemplar specimen from Dinosaurs of America.

We have grown in membership and some venues and dealers have moved, so please use this guide to continue to get the most out of your Tucson experience. It represents a trusted source for collectors, enthusiasts and paleo-professionals alike.

I am looking forward to joining you all again for our annual dinner and meeting at a wonderful new location that will hopefully be our venue for years to come. The Embassy Suites East at 6555 East Speedway is a top tier property with plenty of room for us to expand in the future.

Finally, I would like to recognize the wonderful work some of our members are doing. Congratulations to Walter Stein and his team on the founding of the "Dinosaurs of the Hell Creek Museum". This is another reminder that our members do far more than focus purely on commerce. Also, I would like to congratulate past president John Issa for his new position at Enchanted Designs. Please stop by and show your support at his new location at the Pueblo show.

I wish you all a successful show and look forward to the many great achievements of our members this year.

Warmest Regards,
Andre LuJan, President

AAPS ADVOCATE 2024-2025

John Issa of Enchanted Designs was victorious in his bid for the prestigious Bill Mason PaleoBond Lab Coat at the annual 2024 AAPS Dinner and Auction. Along with the honor of possessing the lab coat for one year until this year's annual Dinner and Auction on February 8, 2025, he is also garnered the title of AAPS Advocate for 2024-2025 year. This allows him, and his company, Enchanted Designs, to be acknowledged and promoted in the 2025 AAPS Annual Guide.

John is no stranger to the AAPS or volunteering for roles that advance commercial paleontology and education in Earth Sciences. He first joined the AAPS as a board member in 2007. He would stay on the board of AAPS for five years until 2011 when he then accepted a role on the Executive Board of AAPS as Secretary/Treasurer. He stayed on as Secretary/Treasurer until 2013. He then went on to become Vice President of the AAPS from 2013 until 2016 and then President of the AAPS from 2016 until 2020. After 2020, he stayed on the Executive Board of AAPS for three more years in the role of Junior Past President until 2023. He now currently sits as a board member and is on the AAPS Publication Committee and is one of the admins for the AAPS Facebook page.

John is also a member of the Alberta Paleontological Society and is a board member on the Dinosaur Research Institute in his home of Alberta, Canada. The DRI is an organization similar to the AAPS in that it awards many grants, scholarships and bursaries to students in the field of Paleontology. John was also instrumental in setting up the Rene Vandervelde Research Grant which awards $1000 annually to available, qualified researchers working on the marine paleontology, geology, or stratigraphy of the Late Cretaceous Pierre and Bearpaw Shales of North America. This grant was initiated through the AAPS in 2007 in the name of Canada Fossils founder, Rene Vandervelde, and is still around today. This grant is now funded by Korite Ammolite Ltd.

Although John is known for his work with colourful Canadian ammonites, he has worked with many different types of fossils in North America, both vertebrate and invertebrate, over his career. He started his professional paleontological career in 1999 with Canada Fossils Ltd. Canada Fossils specialized in colourful Canadian ammonites but were also known to work with many other fossils. They were one of the largest “real” dinosaur companies in the world having dug, prepared and sold more than 30 real dinosaur skeletons from Northwestern Montana. These skeletons can still be viewed today in Natural History Museums across North America, Asia, Europe and The Middle East. Canada Fossils also worked with the Government of Canada and the Province of Quebec digging for Devonian fish from the Gaspé Peninsula’s Escuminac Formation in Miguasha, Quebec, Canada. These amazing fish fossils can be seen in many of the world’s natural history museums thanks to the efforts of Canada Fossils. This area is now a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Canada Fossils is also known for working with the Province of British Columbia, Canada, digging Triassic fish from the Sulphur Mountain Formation of Wapiti Lake. Canada Fossils Ltd. stopped doing business under that name in 2016.

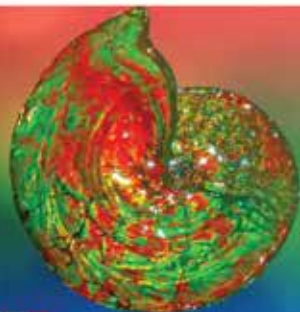

John has been attending the Tucson show yearly since 2000 and has been known to work with one of the most colourful items and fossils in existence; colourful Canadian ammonites. Over the years, John has sold many hundreds of these amazing fossils to museums, private collectors, interior designers and institutions. John has been working with these amazingly beautiful fossils for more than 25 years.

Canadian ammonites and the gemstone Ammolite are found only in one small, six-square-mile, area of North America; southern Alberta, Canada. Together with his current employer, Enchanted Designs, they mine for and prepare colourful Canadian ammonites from the Bearpaw Formation. The future is bright for Enchanted Designs, having just opened a four-acre new mining area. John and team are looking forward to seeing the ammonites and the Ammolite gems that will be coming from this new area!

KORITE Embarks on a Bold New Journey: Tradition Meets Innovation

KORITE, a world leader in Ammonite fossils and Ammolite gemstone jewelry, is turning the page to an exciting new chapter. Guided by the visionary leadership of Buffalo Rock Mining, owned by Tracy and Beth Day Chief of the Kainai Nation, and fueled by the expertise of newly appointed President Amarjeet Grewal, KORITE is poised to blend its storied heritage with a modern, global vision.

This dynamic collaboration promises to elevate KORITE's legacy, highlighting the unmatched beauty of Ammolite while ensuring the company remains a beacon of ethical practices, cultural respect, and innovation.

A Vision Rooted in Tradition and Purpose

For Tracy and Beth Day Chief, acquiring KORITE represents more than a business decision—it's a deeply personal journey to share the cultural and spiritual significance of Ammonite with the world. Known as "Iniskim" or Buffalo Stone to the Blackfoot people, Ammonite is revered as a sacred symbol of prosperity, holding immense cultural and spiritual importance.

"We see this as an opportunity to breathe new life into KORITE," said Tracy Day Chief. "This is about more than expanding a brand—it's about honoring a legacy, safeguarding our traditions, and introducing a global audience to the magic of Iniskim."

Since its founding in 2008, Buffalo Rock Mining has built a reputation for responsibly sourced Ammonite that aligns with Alberta's stringent fossil regulations. Now, with KORITE under their stewardship, the Day Chiefs are committed to fusing Indigenous heritage with sustainable business practices to create a brand that reflects respect for both the past and the future.

Introducing Amarjeet Grewal: A Visionary Leader

At the heart of this transition is Amarjeet Grewal, a trailblazing leader with over 30 years of experience in the gemstone and jewelry industries. Known for her ability to foster relationships and unite communities, Grewal is renowned for her dedication to amplifying the stories behind gemstones, and her appointment as KORITE's President marks the beginning of an exciting new chapter.

"Joining KORITE feels like coming full circle in the story of Ammolite," Grewal said. "This role offers a unique opportunity to elevate not just the brand but also the incredible story of Ammolite on a global scale. I'm honored to lead a company that celebrates cultural heritage while embracing innovation and excellence."

Tracy Day Chief echoed this sentiment, noting, "Amarjeet's energy, insight, and leadership are exactly what KORITE needs to reach new heights. Her passion for the gemstone industry and her vision for its future align perfectly with our mission to share the significance of Ammonite with the world."

Under Grewal's leadership, KORITE is set to expand into new markets, forge meaningful global partnerships, and innovate with designs and storytelling that capture the rich heritage of Ammolite.

A Chance to Dig Crystal Clams

Incredible! - is the most common term used when people see this unusual combination of crystals and fossils. Discovered in the mid-1990s in a quarry near Lake Okeechobee, Florida, they quickly became famous in both the mineral and fossil world. But by the mid-2000s the mining played out, the quarry flooded, and the land was sold. A few years later Pacific GeoLab gained exclusive access to the property and since then we have discovered several sites where we excavate the classic crystalized clams that made this occurrence famous. Now you may have a chance to dig your own.

How They Formed

This area was a shallow sea about 2 million years ago. Like many bivalve communities today, these clams lived in sandy mud near the shoreline at the time. Sudden storm events periodically buried the area under deep sediments, trapping the clams. As their bodies decayed, the process left behind cavities in the shells. With the heat and pressure that accompanied the pile-up of sediments, the original shell material (aragonite) became unstable and began to dissolve away. As it happened, this provided the elements necessary to grow pure honey-colored calcite crystals in the open spaces.

Your Chance To Dig

The quarry will never reopen and the property remains closed. But we are exploring the idea of arranging a very limited, one-time opportunity for clients to visit and dig at our site in mid April 2025. This may be your only chance to dig these unique specimens for yourself. Only a few dozen people will be allowed and only for a few days.

This is not for kids nor open to the general public. Serious inquiries only. If you are interested in participating in this unique fossil/crystal digging opportunity, check our website for further details: PacificGeoLab.com or email: sundialjon@gmail.com
